II. WHEN AND WHY WE COLLECT PERSONAL INFORMATION

Any point of interaction between you and Sydell, whether electronic, by phone, or in person, is a point at which we may collect information from you. Below are examples of when and why we may collect your information which we provide for your convenience, but please note that this list is not exhaustive.

RESERVATIONS

We collect personal information to assist us in making your reservation and to ensure that the services meet your needs. This information helps us customize and personalize your experience in our properties. Maintaining this information on file also allows guests to review prior transaction statements or invoices and see itemized reports on spending.

PROMOTIONS AND MARKETING

This information also enables us to inform you of promotions or other offers or information. Some such promotions require that your personal information be shared with a third party, including marketing and communications companies. These companies are under contract with us and are obligated to protect any such information to which they may have access. If you do not wish to receive such promotions and information from us, you may indicate as such when you stay with us, or you may contact one of our properties, or you may e-mail us at info@sydellgroup.com.

SURVEYS

We also collect personal information when we conduct customer satisfaction surveys or focus groups in order to improve our products or services. Such information may be collected by third parties under contract with us, and they are obligated to protect any such information to which they may have access.

for purposes of considering the applicant for employment as well as for management and research purposes.

OTHER TYPES OF INFORMATION

Please note that in addition to the personal information described in the foregoing sections, we also may use closed circuit television and other security measures at our properties that may capture or record images of guests and visitors in public areas. You acknowledge that by accessing any of our public spaces, we may capture and use your image for security and investigative purposes. We also may collect additional personal information in connection with on-site services, such as concierge services, health clubs, spas, activities, child care services, and equipment rental.

SENSITIVE INFORMATION

Sensitive information refers to information related to your racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religion or other beliefs, health, criminal background or trade union membership. We do not generally collect sensitive information unless it is volunteered by you. We may use health data provided by you exclusively to serve you better and meet your particular needs.

III. HOW WE COLLECT PERSONAL INFORMATION

Personal information may be gathered through online forms, over the phone, over e-mail, in person, or by any other method covered by this Policy. Except for the security measures discussed above or other areas indicated in this Policy, when we need to collect personal information from you, we will ask you to voluntarily supply us with the information we need. The most common examples of such requests are when you make a reservation, which we describe in more detail below.

If you wish, you may submit your e-mail address to our subscription list or to receive other information. We will only place you on such lists when you indicate your desire to be included. We do not sell or rent our lists to anyone. Once on such a list, you may ask to be removed from the list at any time. Visitors will always have the ability to accept or decline any form of communication from Sydell.

We may use third parties to provide us with additional contact information about you based on information you provide to us directly. For example, if we know your name and postal address, we may use a third party to provide us with your e-mail address. We may request your personal information from your traveling companion. In such cases, we rely on your companion to obtain your consent for disclosing such information to us.

When you visit our websites, your computer may be provided a cookie, which tracks your preferences. These cookies allow us to provide each visitor with a customized experience. We may also use cookies to collect and maintain aggregate website data (such as the number of visitors to a particular site), which helps us see which areas are popular with our users and which are not. Among other things, this data helps us improve and update the site, based on our visitors' use information. If you do not want to accept cookies, you can block them by adjusting the settings on your browser. Please understand that rejecting cookies will affect your ability to benefit from certain customization features associated with creating a user profile.

We also may collect data by using pixel tags, web beacons, clear GIFs, or similar means (collectively, "pixel tags") that allow us to know when you visit our site and to understand how you interact with our e-mails or advertisements. These methods also collect aggregate data that we hope to use to improve our websites to better suit our visitors and customers preferences. Sydell websites may collect broad categories of personal information when you browse or request pages from our servers—mainly aggregated data we use to gauge our visitors' interests and improve our sites to better suite our visitors' needs. When you browse or request pages, our sites do not collect information that will reveal your personal identity unless you voluntarily and knowingly provide it to us. We will not collect information that reveals your personal identity unless you access the websites through a link provided by us in an e-mail or you have logged into an online account on our websites or are remembered on our websites by a cookie, either by computer or by mobile phone access. In these cases, we will know who you are based on the information you previously supplied to us.

RESERVATIONS

When making a room reservation, we will ask you for personal information necessary for ensuring that your room is properly reserved and your needs are met.

Visitors to websites who elect to make reservations online will be required to create an online account and fill out a profile the first time they make a reservation. When you complete a profile, you will be asked to provide specific information, including your name, address, other contact information, and credit card information as a guarantee and deposit for your reservation. Your transmittal of this information shall constitute your acknowledgment and agreement to the terms and conditions contained in this Policy.

Your credit card number will be verified using a checking sequence, but we do not authorize any payments at this point. Once your reservation is confirmed, the property you have selected will be sent all of the reservation information in much the same way as if you had called the property directly or if your travel agent had made the reservation. The reservation system is secure, so your credit card number is protected and is transmitted on a private network.

You can also make a reservation by contacting a particular property directly. When you make a reservation over the phone, we may ask you for information such as your name, address, telephone number, and method of payment. We may also obtain from you any room preferences or special requests. Confirmation of your reservation will be provided to you, generally by email, directly from the property.

IV. HOW WE STORE PERSONAL INFORMATION

We treat the information you provide to us as confidential. Information stored at our properties is kept in a secure location, whether in locked filing cabinets or in protected electronic databases. Reservation information is stored in a secure customer database on a dedicated server. We also maintain a separate database for personal information used for marketing and research purposes. For online transactions, we use technology to protect the personal information that you transmit to us via our site. When we ask for your credit card data, it is transferred over a Secured Sockets Layer (SSL) line, provided you are using a SSL enabled browser such as Microsoft Internet Explorer or Mozilla Firefox. We also use SSL on other pages where you would enter personally identifiable information. This ensures that your information is encrypted as it travels over the Internet. After information reaches Sydell, it is stored on a secure server behind firewalls designed to block unauthorized access. Please note that no security system or system of transmitting data over the Internet can be guaranteed to be entirely secure.

For your own privacy protection, please do not include sensitive personal information, including, without limitation, credit card numbers, in any e-mails you may send to us.
